A BIG CLASS

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES FOR 115 GRADUATES OF INTERMEDIATE SCHOOL

The hour from eight to nine Friday evening at Union High School was an eventful one for the 115 boys and girls who then received their certificates of graduation from the Intermediate School and were accredited to the High School. The extreme youth of most of the young people was proof that they are good students. Were it otherwise, they would not be in position to claim such a certificate of scholarship.

The good orchestral work of the Junior and Intermediate Orchestra, under the direction of Miss Wetherby, Director of Music, filled parents and friends of the grammar schools with pride and was a promise that the Glendale schools may produce musicians who will become noted. The fact that Miss Evelyn Apple, a member of the class and a fine pianist, was ill and unable to contribute the numbers assigned her on the program and act as accompanist of the Glee Club Girls, was a disappointment to the class and the audience, and certainly a hardship to her.

Other musical numbers which won great and deserved applause were the solos by Julia Robinson, who has a very sweet and true soprano, and who is likely to meet with a very warm welcome in the High School because of her high endowment.

A large space fronting the platform had been reserved for the graduates, who were enthusiastically cheered when they entered and marched down the aisles in single file to their appointed places. The girls, in white middy suits and large blue hair bows, were supposed to represent the United States Navy by proxy, while the boys in khaki paid

SOLDIERS ENTERTAINED

Mrs. Harry W. Hall of 426 Maryland avenue opened her home Friday evening to four young soldier boys. While Mrs. Hall has been an invalid confined to her home for nearly four years, she has been an untiring worker for the soldiers. She has knit, as nearly as she can tell, between forty and fifty pairs of socks and has helped to knit many more, also teaching any knitter who has had difficulty with heels and toes. The boys she entertained Friday evening were from Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Iowa. A Big Bear trout dinner was given them, something new to most of the lads. The evening was spent with music, a daughter of the house, Miss Audrey, being quite an accomplished violinist. Mrs. Sarah Gregg, mother of Mrs. Hall, also an ardent Red Cross worker, helped to make the boys feel at home. Mrs. Gregg is the widow of a Civil War veteran and mother of a son who saw service in Cuba. Mrs. Hall deserves a great deal of credit for her efforts, considering the difficulties under which her work is done. Mrs. E. D. Gregg, sister-in-law of Mrs. Hall, assisted her in entertianing the boys.

MILITARY PARTY

Members of the A-8-3 section of the graduating class of the Intermediate school thought the draft age limit had been changed when they received invitations in the form of orders from their class teacher, Miss Frances Jackson, to appear at a certain hour with their captains at her home, 1446 West Third street, Wednesday evening. They were loyal soldiers and were prompt to respond, appearing at the appointed hour in three divisions, wearing military caps with red, white and blue plumes. Miss Jackson was assisted in entertaining her guests by her mother, Mrs. M. G. Jackson, and Misses Clara Midcalf and Carrie Noble. Clever games of a military nature had been devised by the hostess and the young people entered into them with characteristic enthusiasm. The games were Inspection, Identificaiton, Over the Top, Somewhere, Bombardment, Hand Grenades, Smileage Exercises, Court Martial, Furlough and, last of all, Mess. The guests were: Glenn Briggs, Wilfrid Cline, Dorothy Cotton, Lewis Fitzgerald, Dorothy Huskins, Horace McRae, Lucile Nelson, Stanley Niblack, Merton Noyes, Joseph Psenner, John Richardson, Bennie Riskin, George Roach, Julia Robinson, Eleanor Sawyer, Louise Smart, Gladys Sparr, Marion Springer, Mildred Stanford, Elizabeth Sternberg, Lois Stubbs, Kathleen Taylor, Avis Thompson, Edward Thompson, Helen Thompson, Maynard Toll, Earl Van Dyke, Lloyd Van Epps, Hazel Walters, Vera Watkins, Dale Wood, Howard Ralston, Waldo Yard, Marjorie Yarick, Mary Young.

VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE

GLENDALE HIGH SCHOOL A PIONEER IN AIDING STUDENTS TO CHOOSE LIFE WORK

One of the teachers in the High School whose work has detained her a day or two after the flitting of her fellow workers is Miss Ethel Flood, head of the Vocational Guidance Department, a comparatively new line of pedagogical work in which Glendale Union High is a pioneer and Miss Flood a pathfinder. The work she is now doing concerns the statistical records of the first year's work, which has more than justified the try-out.

The purpose of the department is to direct the thought of the student to the consideration of a life vocation. In considering it he must get a general idea of many businesses and professions before he is qualified to determine which are most attractive to him. Having selected his favorites he has then to consider healthful conditions, moral conditions, social conditions, opportunities for advancement and financial returns.

As stated, this was the initial year of this course, in which about thirty students enrolled, chiefly boys. As it was in a measure experimental, it was laid out in a broad, general way. First it took up the need of vocational guidance, then the characteristics of a good vocation, what makes is good or bad, the moral conditions, its possibilities. The boys were shown how to study a vocation, i. e., by interviewing persons engaged in it, by reading and by sampling, that is, by trying it for vacation work.

During the year a detailed study of the more important vocations was made, including agriculture, commercial occupations, transportation, manufacturing, the building trades, the law, the ministry, engineering, aeronautics, private secretaryship, etc.

After these studies, pupils analyzed the vocations and the qualities needed successfully to fill them. They then made analyses of their own qualities and abilities to see how well adapted they were to the vocations which interested them.

The course also included much wholesome, practical advice on such matters as self improvement by watching the work of one's superiors, by attending night classes and lectures and by the reading of vocational magazines. They were told how to break bad habits. Methods of securing positions were also taken up and from an expert they received advice on the writing of letters in answering advertisements or applying for positions, and were given practice in the writing of such letters. They were also rehearsed in personally applying for a position. Success after entering business life was also considered and what constitutes success in its truest sense.

Fifteen speakers who were specialists in as many lines of work addressed the class and visits were made to all the local and nearby industries. The records show that more than 200 business and professional men were interviewed by members of the class.

There were discussions and debates and side excursions into the Federal and State Labor Laws, laws for the protection of industrial workers, the eight-hour law, the minimum wage law, and child welfare laws.

The last visit made by the class was to the Lasky Studios, where the commercial side of the business in its many ramifications was shown in detail. Few people have any conception of the work of the middlemen in conveying a picture from the camera to the public, men who have no part as actors in the production of the play. It was quite a concession to secure permission to visit the commercial end of the studio and none of the pupils alone could have secured the privilege. For such reasons as this the course is a great educator and should prove of incalculable value in preventing waste of time on the part of graduates in trying to determine what work they want to do or for what profession they desire to equip themselves. Many a man has failed because he drifted into some occupation to which he was not adapted and when the discovery was made it was too late to repair the waste of misspent years. The vocational department means conservation and efficiency.

ANNUAL CLUB LUNCHEON

The annual luncheon of the Tuesday Afternoon Club will take place at 12:30 Tuesday at the Methodist church, Third and Kenwood. There will be an interesting program of music and readings after which important business matters will come before the members.

GERMANY TO AID AUSTRIA

WILL RUSH REINFORCEMENTS TO ITALIAN FRONT TO HELP SAVE ALLY FROM COMPLETE DEFEAT

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Military officials here are informed that Germany is rushing reinforcements to Italy for fear that the demoralizing rout of the Austrians will otherwise cause the disruption of Austria. Officials caution against premature hope of a complete victory in Italy. Germany is fully awake to Austria's peril and is sending an increasing number of Germans to the Austrian front. The situation in Italy continues to have dangers, they say. It is reported that Emperor Karl hurried to the front yesterday.

ITALIANS PURSUE FLEEING FOE

PRACTICALLY ALL TERRITORY TAKEN BY AUSTRIANS ON PIAVE FRONT HAS BEEN RECAPTURED

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

ROME, June 24.—Italian infantry and cavalry have crossed the Piave near Camposillo and are in pursuit of the fleeing Austrians. Aviators and field artillery are also helping to annihilate the enemy. All the Italian losses save one unimportant point have been taken and the west bank of the Piave is practically clear of the enemy. The Italians have captured thousands of prisoners as the Austrians are continuing their retreat on a forty-mile front, abandoning much war material. Austrian attempts to develop a rear guard attack were frustrated. Austrian losses during the last week are estimated at more than 200,000. Italian losses for the same period were 40,000. Austria has lost over a hundred aeroplanes and balloons. The Piave has been crossed by the Italians at four points on a twenty-mile front and bridgeheads have been established.

PARIS, June 24.—Italians on the West front repulsed a sharp German attack at Bligny mountain, inflicting heavy losses. German attacks northwest of Compiegne and between the Marne and Rheims were sanguinarily repulsed.

LIBERTY PARADE

PROGRAM AND LINE OF MARCH FOR BIG LOYALTY DEMONSTRATION TUESDAY EVE

The accompanying diagram will tell the people just where they are to assemble on Tuesday evening, June 25th, at 7:00 sharp.

The committee in charge are receiving hearty co-operation on every hand and a splendid success should result. This is a demonstration by the people and for the people and it is in the hands of the people to make it a triumph for the cause of right and democracy. Each and every one participating will be better for having done so and at the same time will have done a service to their country.

See that your neighbor is informed. Be a committee of one to tell every one you see even if he or she knows all about it. Bring the children, for it is for their future that we are fighting. The little folks have responded to the War Savings Campaign in a way which makes us proud of the rising generation. Remember what Gen. Pershing said: "God bless the children of the United States."

SELF SACRIFICE

Mrs. Louise Purnell of 139 West Tenth street persuaded herself to part with treasured field glasses which were sent to her from Paris thirty years ago and which she has dispatched to Uncle Sam after having had them tested to make sure they were in perfect condition. Though it was a hardship to let them go, she felt that Uncle Sam had greater need of them than she has.

Sunday Mrs. Purnell motored with a party of friends which included Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lawson and family and Mr. and Mrs. George Hunter, to a point beyond Craig's Inn near Calabasas. It was her first long drive at the wheel without the assistance of an instructor, and she now feels equal to any ordinary trip.

THE SOCIETY VAUDEVILLE

The annual Children's Society Vaudeville, the third one given by pupils of the Pearl Keller School of Dramatic Art and Dancing, comes off tonight at the Palace Grand Theatre. It is larger and more elaborate than ever before, both in costuming and program, and is the big event of the season, in which hundreds of children will take part and exhibit thoroughly artistic work it is a delight to witness. These children are practically all from Glendale or tributary territory, and for that reason the entertainment is of special local interest, apart from the very natural pride which the town feels in a local institution which has developed both in numbers and reputation as has the Keller School.

There are sixty-one numbers on the program not counting the grand tableau finale, so it will be impossible to refer to all in detail. Only a few of the high spots can be touched upon. Outstanding features will be the three ballets executed by the advanced pupils, whose work is already familiar to Glendale audiences and who are the best exponents of what the school is accomplishing. They will feature Merna and Merle Kahler, Dorothy Dutton, Doris Cook, Florence Rattray, Arline Yeakel, Gertrude Ewins, Vivian May, Shirley and Glen Hitchcock. These ballets are all different and all charming and are named on the program as: "The Wedding of the Winds," "The Blue Bird," "La Ballet Vanity."

Parents and others who have been watching the work of the school will feel special interest in the wonderful solo dancing of small pupils three and four years old. In this class little Virginia Mull who appears in the dance "Miss Vanity," is quite a star and so dear in looks and ways that her contribution alone is worth the price of admission, but there are other tots equally charming.

Another big number will be the Chinese Toddle, featuring fourteen advanced pupils.

In the grand patriotic tableau with which the entertainment ends, little Doris Cook will sing the new song composed by her mother (our townswoman, Mrs. Jessie Oliver Cook), which is entitled "Yankee Boy, We Are All for You," the entire school joining in the chorus.

READING CIRCLE

MRS. CHARLES H. TOLL, LEADER, IS HOSTESS AT ANNUAL PICNIC

The picnic luncheon and program which closed the year's work of the Reading Circle which meets at the home of Mrs. Charles Toll on Kenneth road, and which took place June 19th, was such a pleasure to all those present, and they were many, that the announcement of summer gatherings was received with enthusiasm, for the Circle has decided to continue to meet until the middle of August at the Library of the Third Street school. The large girls who come with their mothers will do Red Cross work in the Domestic Science rooms; the large boys will work at Sloyd under Mr. Harkness and enjoy playground activities under his charge in the afternoon, and there will be an experienced custodian for little tots too young to engage in the activities named.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, MONDAY, JUNE 24, 1918

HUNT-FEINSTEIN WEDDING

An extremely pretty home wedding was solemnized Friday evening June 21st, at 8:30 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Abel Moulton Hunt, 1201 Viola avenue, Casa Verdugo, when their daughter, Mary Elizabeth, was united in marriage to Joseph William Feinstein of Los Angeles.

The attractive home was tastefully decorated with summer flowers and mountain fern, the color scheme of green and white being carried throughout all the rooms.

The ceremony was very simple, the young people, who were unattended, taking their places before a screen of greenery, Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Glendale, reading the marriage service. Sweet music which immediately preceded the service was rendered by Miss Jessie Wright, a classmate of Miss Hunt, who sang "Answer" and "You" in a very charming manner. She was accompanied by Miss Loie Hunt, a sister of the bride, who played softly during the entire service.

The bride was gowned in a beaded creation of Georgette crepe and carried a large shower bouquet of bride roses and valley lilies. About fifty-five guests witnessed the ceremony, and many beautiful gifts tastefully arranged in a small room just off the front parlor, testified unmistakably to the high esteem in which the young people are held. Mrs. Feinstein was a graduate of the State Normal School this year, receiving her diploma the day previous to her marriage.

All were much interested in the cutting of a large white and silver wedding cake, after which dainty refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Feinstein left immediately for a short trip and will be at home at 1228 Leighton avenue, Los Angeles, after July 15th.

EPWORTH LEAGUE ENTERTAINS BOYS IN KHAKI

Soldier boys who accepted the invitation of the Epworth League for a Sunday evening supper, and there were fifty or more of them, had an exceedingly good time. About 5:30 automobiles were dispatched to the Rifle Range to bring them to the First Methodist church and at six o'clock they sat down to an appetizing supper of escallopped potatoes, sandwiches, iced tea, jelly, ice cream and cake. Before they left the tables Miss Isgrig whistled two numbers and then the guests and their entertainers adjourned to the League rooms on the first floor, where an informal musicale was given, which included a duet by Margaret Lusby and Eva Thede and duet by Eva Thede and Jennie Lacy, followed by an old-fashioned "sing" of familiar melodies. Nearly all the guests remained for the church service and heard Mr. Hooper, the Canadian stretcher bearer, tell of his war experiences. After that the boys helped the girls to clear away the supper dishes in the basement and were taken back to the camp in automobiles. Arrangements have been made to have a reading room open in the church tonight and two other evenings this week with a host and hostess in attendance where the soldiers can gather to read and play games.

AUTO COLLISION

Passengers in two automobiles which came together in a head-on collision as one rounded the corner and struck the other at Central and Park avenues at 9:10 o'clock Saturday night were exceedingly fortunate, all things considered. One was driven by J. H. Tracy of 3524 South Flower street, Los Angeles, who was accompanied by his wife and Mrs. H. E. Tracy of Coalinga. J. H. Cunningham of 506 Florence place, Glendale, was the driver of the other machine and he was accompanied by Mrs. Sarah Shelton and her thirteen-months babe, of the same address. Mrs. Shelton was cut and bruised but not very seriously hurt and she was the only one in the two parties who required the services of a physician. Both cars were badly damaged.

FOOTHILL CLUB

Mrs. W. C. Cutler, 1327 North Louise, opened her lovely home Friday to the members of the Foothill Club for their monthly meeting. The members have formed themselves into an auxiliary to the local Red Cross chapter and their meetings, which were formerly strictly social affairs, are now spent in Red Cross work. There were decorations of seasonable blossoms in honor of the club and the hostess served dainty refreshments and entertained her guests very charmingly.

A Glendale woman is anxious to arrange with some party going to Riverside or San Bernardino to execute a commission for her and hopes that any one who has occasion to motor to either city will telephone her, calling Glendale 1008-J.

APPRECIATE HOSPITALITY

The informal entertainment given Sunday afternoon by Mrs. Ella W. Richardson at her home, 805 South Central avenue in honor of the soldiers who are stationed on the rifle range near Glendale was a very pleasant affair, about fifty being present. Mr. and Mrs. Parker, newcomers to Glendale, contributed songs, Mrs. Bosserman acting as accompanist, Miss Harriett Barnes gave readings and Miss Marion Logan sang. Mrs. Alexander Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Stephenson, Mr. and Mrs. John Logan, Mrs. Harry S. Duffield, Mrs. LeRoy Bosserman and others assisted Mrs. Richardson in entertaining. An informal luncheon was served and the guests remained until late in the evening. Other Glendale women have followed Mrs. Richardson's example in throwing their homes open to the soldiers. A number of the boys spoke pathetically of their appreciation of this kindness, some of them saying it had been several years since they had been inside of a home.

SOLDIERS DANCE AND DINE

The supper and dance Saturday night for soldier boys at Casa Verdugo Cafe was a success which far exceeded the expectations of the committee chairman, Mrs. Salmacia and her assistant, Miss Frae Morse. It was given by the ladies of the Holy Family Catholic Church, but everybody turned out to give the boys a good time. More than a hundred soldiers attended and each had a partner for the supper and the dance who was seated beside him at one of the long tables on which the spread was served. The boys were accompanied by Captain McFarland, who asked that some public expression be given for himself and Captain La Mont of their appreciation of this tribute. The success was due in no small degree to the Diando Film Company, who furnished the five-piece orchestra for the dance music, and to Mrs. Sol, who not only gave the use of her cafe, but contributed a great many tamales for the supper. Everybody help and the mechants of Glendale and Casa Verdugo were most generous in their contributions.

Besides the dance there was an informal entertainment which included jokes and recitations by Adam Fangman, songs and dances by Viola Yorba and Ernest Martinez. Mrs. Salmacia was the inspiration of the whole affair and but rof her determination that the boys should have been the joy it was to the lads.

ASK NO QUESTIONS

This morning one of the linotypes in the busy office of the Glendale Evening News went on a strike and had to be placed in the hands of a repair man. The office poet at once got busy, with the following result: (With apologies to Alfred Tennyson)

Break, break, break, O linotype contrary,
And I would that my tongue could utter the thoughts that arise in me.
Ah, well, for delivery boys as they romp with each other in play,
Ah, bad for subscribers galore as they wonder the cause of delay,
And the telephone tinkles and hums with copy three pages to fill,
But O for the touch of a vanished hand on a clanking machine that is still.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Griffin and their sons Jim and Jack were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Douglas and their son Shannon on an auto trip to Topango Canyon, where they spent the day. It was a delightful experience as the glen was bright with wild flowers and other lovely wild growths. Hundreds of other machines were there to share their picnic ground.

Chapter B. A. of the P. E. O. had its final meeting of the year at the home of Mrs. Freeman Kelley of 532 Orange Grove avenue, Friday, and a most enjoyable afternoon was spent. Mrs. Kate Parker, president, gave a short address, followed by a musical program. A few guests were present who joined the chapter in doing war work to swell its gift to the Red Cross.

LA CRESCENTA

A petition is being circulated to have Ocean View avenue paved. It is in a very bad condition.

Mrs. Price had her daughter, Mrs. Land, and Baby Land for over Sunday guests.

Miss Marguerite Hauber will be at home for a short vacation before continuing at the summer session at U. S. C.

Mrs. B. F. Miller has left for a vacation hike into the mountains back of Switzers Camp. She expects to be gone ten days or more.

Mrs. Tom Bonetto is in receipt of a letter from a soldier boy who received a pair of the socks she had knitted.

a similar tribute to the army. Blue and white are the class colors, which featured the beautiful floral decoration of the stage for which Mrs. H. W. Yarick, past president of the Intermediate P.-T. A., and assisting officers and members were responsible. Shasta daisies and blue Canterbury bells were used to attain the happy effect.

Professor Richardson D. White, Superintendent of Schools and principal of the Intermediate, presided and shared his place of honor upon the platform with Hon. Charles E. Waldo, who made the address to graduates, and with Mrs. Charles Toll, President of the Grammar School Board of Trustees, who presented the diplomas with a motherly friendliness of intimate acquaintance which was most charming to class and audience.

The visiting speaker was introduced as a former congressman from New York who is now engaged in the practice of law in Los Angeles. His address was couched in simple phrase and directed to the class rather than to the audience, which was large, filling every available nook and corner of the hall.

He declared: "The American schools are the greatest institution on earth because there children learn the meaning of true democracy. There all the boys and girls stand on their own footing. It matters not whether they have been fortunate in the past, whether they are rich or poor. Their standing in school will depend on their real worth and that will be the basis of their standing all through life. It depends on what men and women do as to whether they are honored, useful members of the community or whether they become driftwood and are lost.

"Mr. Schwab has defined success as the ability to do whatever you attempt a little better than others. Every boy and girl should know that there is a place ready for each one who does his or her work a little better than is required. If you do that you will find every one will help you. There will be no limit to where you may go if you work that way in school."

In her presentation address to the class, Mrs. Toll said:

"Your fathers and mothers have had no such opportunity, whether they have gone through college or not, as you have had the last two years, particularly during the past year, because we have never lived in such a period as that in which we are now living."

"If you had any idea of what these boys and girls have done this year, if you knew as I do what they have accomplished, your hearts would burn with joy and pride as mine now does. It is no small matter to see a lot of boys, as I have seen them, laboring with knitting needles that they may present squares to be made into an afghan to bring comfort to some wounded soldier. These children have bought Liberty bonds to the limit, they have bought Thrift Stamps with all the money they could scrape together, they have signed pledges denying themselves candy, the boys have made articles to be sold for the Red Cross and the girls have labored diligently on eatables to be sold for the Red Cross and on garments to be made for Belgian and French babies. These children have collected musty, dusty old papers from your attics and cellars and sent them on their way to bring dollars to the Red Cross, they have collected old bottles and all other kinds of salvage and have done it so gladly and so willingly.

"Last night I sat on my veranda seeking coolness where little was to be had and saw the dusk descend upon the valley and presently a hand touched a button and a myriad of lights shown out, each one lighting a dark corner and doing some service to our community. I doubt not when the time comes for these boys and girls to go out into the world the hand of destiny will press the button which shall make each life burn and show the way for his fellow men."

Mr. White made an excellent speech about the drive for Thrift Stamp pledges and about the Liberty Parade, and the program closed with the singing of the "Star-Spangled Banner" and the Salute to the Flag, in which the audience joined.

CERRITOS SCHOOL NOTES

Statistics compiled by R. R. Dickerson, who has been principal of the Cerritos School the past year, show an enrollment of something over 300 and an average daily attendance of 212.

Salvage accumulated by the Junior Red Cross of the Cerritos School will probably be taken to Los Angeles next week. It will make a big load and the proceeds, together with the credit it already possesses should give this auxiliary a working credit through which to secure materials of about $200, a good start with which to begin the year, and very creditable considering that the auxiliary was not organized until late in the year.

Children in Miss Small's room and some of the mothers gave her a little farewell party Friday morning at her school room at which simple refreshments were served.

Most of the teachers at Cerritos School received good-bye remembrances from their pupils.

LAWN FETE

Thursday afternoon and evening at home of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Davis, Central and Oak, a fine entertainment by Epworth League and Ladies Aid. A variety of eats and drinks served from 6 to 8.

Personals

Born to Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Young, 866½ S. Brand boulevard, Sunday, June 23, 1918, a son.

George W. Mott of 1415 Burchett street, the popular saxophone player, has gone to Salt Lake City to accept a position as cartoonist on a daily newspaper.

Dwight Stephenson came from Camp Kearny to spend Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Stephenson of Central avenue.

Jason Kilgore of 1607 Vine street, a wireless operator in private service, arrived this morning from a trip to Japan. He leaves Monday for a Mexican port.

Mrs. Vivian R. Webb came home this morning from the Burbank Hospital, where she recently underwent an operation. She is doing nicely and appreciates the kind attentions she has had from her many friends.

Tom Morgan, one of our Fort MacArthur boys who was transferred to Camp Joseph E. Johnston at Jacksonville, Fla., for ten weeks, surprised his family and friends by walking in upon them unexpectedly Saturday. He is now again at Fort MacArthur.

Miss Ruth Wood of West Third street is planning to leave for her home in Hughson, Northern California, this week. Miss Bernice Wood will follow her in two or three weeks and will act as cashier in a bank there this summer.

Mrs. Mary E. Shropshire is in receipt of a dispatch from her son Charles, who was on the steamer Schurz, sunk off the coast of North Carolina. The telegram is dated Brooklyn, N. Y., June 23d, and reads: "Ship sunk Friday morning. Am safe. Letter follows."

Walter B. Hawkins, who recently completed a course at the school of military aeronautics at Princeton University and will soon receive his commission as lieutenant in the flying corps, is at Kelly Field, where he is flying every day and writes that he enjoys it immensely. He will begin cross country and acrobatic flying in a short time.

"Young George Mitchell," who joined the naval reserves not long ago, had his first leave Saturday. His wife and her sister motored to San Diego to bring him home and he spent a happy Sunday with his family. He is burned by sun and wind but looks very well. He is perfectly delighted with the life and said he would not come back for anything.

Mrs. Charles Turck was taken suddenly and seriously ill the latter part of the week. She is now out of danger although she is still under the care of a nurse and will need to be careful for a week or ten days. She expects soon to be in her normal health and says this episode will not interfere at all with the plans for the big carnival to be given as a Red Cross benefit in her beautiful garden the latter part of July.

Unusual interest is being shown in the patriotic program that is to be given in Glendale next Saturday night at the Masonic Hall. That it will be an excellent entertainment there is no doubt as it was given last spring at the Hotel Maryland in Pasadena with great success, under the very capable direction of Dorothy Shindler and Miss Brooks' beautiful work is also well known and appreciated by the leading people of California. Admission, 25, 35 and 50 cents.

As some of the Red Cross workers in the Surgical Dressings Department will march in the Liberty Parade Tuesday evening in their Red Cross uniforms, it has been sugegsted that all the workers, if they feel inclined, put on the garb. They should gather, in that event, at Red Cross headquarters on Brand boulevard, where Mrs. Tuft, the chairman, will be in attendance from 5 to 7 o'clock to assist in securing aprons, headdresses, etc. The parade will start at 7.

The meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon Club which will follow the luncheon on Tuesday is exceedingly important because of the business matters which greatly concern the welfare of the organization which will come before the session, which will convene at 2:30 o'clock. It is desired that as many members as possible be present. Members desiring to attend the luncheon must secure their tickets before 9 p. m. today. They can be obtained from Mrs. Bott, 413 Brand boulevard.

Mrs. J. E. Peck and children, who have been spending several weeks in Glendale and have been living at 1453 Ivy street, are leaving for a visit with relatives in Ashland, Oregon. Mr. Peck visited with his family and with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Peck, at 856 South Pacific avenue, last week while en route from Washington to his Imperial Valley farm near Calexico. Mr. Peck purchased a carload of Holstein cattle at Sumas and Chevalis, Washington, which were pronounced by the inspectors at Los Angeles as the finest cattle that ever passed through that city.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. John Robert White will be glad to learn that their little son Kenneth, who has been critically ill under the care of two physicians, has taken a turn for the better and now seems to be on the road to recovery.

MASONIC NOTICE

Owing to the parade Tuesday evening lodge will not convene until 8 o'clock. Every mason in Glendale is requested to take part in this parade. Inspector E. B. Spencer will make his annual inspection Tuesday. The third degree will be conferred. A large attendance is desired. The usual "Hooverized" feed will be served by Bro. McBain and his able assistants.

Good Morning, Brother Sunshine —Liza Lehmann.

I Dunno—Barnes.

Unison Singing—"America."

Though it was sultry, and though it rained "showers of blessing" upon the guests as they sat down to luncheon at 12:15, their pleasure received no dampening. The rain very considerately ceased in a few moments, and the sun kindly veiled his face (all too bright these days) so there was comfortable shade all the afternoon.

The delicious picnic luncheon was served in great abundance, and several large boxes were carried to needy families at the close of the day. Mrs. William S. Porter was in charge of the commissary department, and she had marshalled her helpers in a truly business-like way, so that all were enabled to sit down promptly at the hour scheduled, and all were promptly served. Her "literary salad" consisted of a large bowl of tissue paper lettuce leaves to which were attached quotations of varying sentiments, some of which when read by the holder provoked a humorous ex tempore remark appropriate to the thought on the leaf.

Mrs. H. V. Henry made an admirable toastmistress, introducing each speaker with a happy, appropriate remark. The toasts were really brilliant and the tributes to officials were feelingly and beautifully given. Some were humorous, some adorned with graceful imagery, and some full of sound advice; while the patriotic toasts were inspiring in their lofty tone. Mrs. Henry "stole a march" on the hostess by interpolating a beautiful tribute to Mrs. Toll as leader of the Circle which was not provided for on the program, but which exactly expressed the sentiments of her guests.

It was a sad coincidence that the first link in the Circle's golden chain of companionship was broken on Monday, when Mrs. Ernest McConnell, who from April, 1916, to November, 1917, was a regular and faithful and enthusiastic attendant of our Circle, passed away. She bravely fought a losing fight for life and even while her fellow members were honoring her sweet memory with silence, all of her that was mortal was being laid to rest. In her honor Mrs. Toll recited those beautiful lines of Whittier, beginning and ending

"Alas for him who never sees
The stars shine through the cypress trees,

"That Life is ever lord of Death,
And Love can never lose its own."

Mrs. Cotton's first poem was inspired by a discussion held some time ago in the Circle, the second was a beautiful description of the emotions awakened by her garden, the third was a clever description of the Circle, in which she touched on all the points in connection with the work. She writes most cleverly, and her serious work ranks high in attainment. Little Miss Dotson at the close of the third poem presented Mrs. Toll with a dear old-fashioned nosegay, with a quaint old-fashioned graceful curtsey most charming to see.

Mr. Howe's appeal was impassioned and patriotic, and inspired the women with a desire to do their part in the coming campaign and parade.

Mrs. Campbell's address was intensely interesting and compelling from the first word to the last. She is a most magnetic speaker and invests every word with deep meaning.

Mrs. Parker is a newcomer in Glendale, having recently arrived from Detroit. She has a lovely rich contralto voice, well trained and under excellent control, which is appealing in quality. Mrs. Wright, who was a professionai for years on the concert stage, is an unusually fine accompanist, as well as a composer of much talent.

Those present were:

THOSE CAMP LIBRARIES

The following letter to Mrs. Danford, City Librarian, is passed along for the interest and co-operation of citizens:

June 6, 1918.

To the Librarian:

We are glad to learn from many sources that the successful intensive campaign for camp library books is regarded as a continuous campaign, to last for the duration of the war.

Three and a half million gift books will supply many men with reading matter, but the supply will not equal the demand, unless the books continue to come. Draft orders are being extended, thousands more men are going to training camps, hundreds of thousands are going overseas. More books will be needed constantly.

In making appeals for books, the following unsatisfied demands should be kept in mind: for new fiction; for books in modern foreign languages, especially French; ofr text-books in good condition—rhetoric, grammar, mathematics, science, European and American history.

One librarian suggests that every person ask every one else, "Have YOU given any books for the camp libraries?"

Very truly yours,
HERBERT PUTNAM,
General Director.
